Bormitories for High Schoels.

There was a sharp fight over a new item of $20,000 to provide dormitories at each of the ten agricultural high schools of the State. Mr. Spessard moved to strike out the item.

It was a bad precedent, he said, to begin furnishing dormitories at high schools—it would soon mean ten more institutions making demands on the treasury like the normal schools. Mr. Montague objected to creating ten more State institutions, where pupils of high school grade could eat, sleep and go to school on the premises at State expense. Mr. Meetze, of Prince William, defended the item at length, saying that one of the ten was located in his county. Mr. Grasty wanted to know if it took $50,000 to erect one dormitory at the Harrisonburg normal, how it was possible to erect ten at agricultural high schools for $20,000. Mr. Stearnes characterized the schools as ten private snaps for as many counties at the expense of the State. Mr. Gordon said it was merely the beginning of ten more normals, and that next year they would want $10,000 a year each for other dornitories, kitchens and an endless group of buildings. Appeals were made to the country members to stand by an item for the betterment of agricultural conditions by the representatives of the ten counties in which the schools are located, and the motion to strike the item out was respected, 51 to 33.

Dressmaker Loses Suit.

A verdict was found for the defendant yesterday in the suit of J. Katz sgainst: Mrs. Edward Butterworth for $40, tried in the City Circuit Court. Katz made a dress for Mrs. Butterworth, and she refused to take it on the ground that it was not a good fit. The suit followed. A jury of seven men listened patiently to the technical terms of the art of dressmaking and to the reasons given by the defendant as to why the dress did not properly fit her. As Mrs. Butterworth left a deposit of $5 with the tailor, the jury ordered that Katz must refund it.
